

SUED FOR DIVORCE, WITH HIS OWN WIFE AS CO-RESPONDENT

Mrs. Simmonds No. 1 Found Decree Defective When she Wanted to Wed Again.

HER CHILDREN TESTIFY.

Give Father Black Looks as They Back Up Their Mother's Statements.

An extraordinary story of family trouble, growing out of a defective Virginia decree of divorce, was told in Justice Gieseler's part of the Supreme Court today when the suit of Mrs. Marion E. Simmonds against Philip R. Simmonds for divorce came up for trial.

Mrs. Simmonds names her husband's present wife, Mrs. Emily Caldwell Simmonds, as co-respondent, and produced her three grown children as witnesses against their father. Her lawyer announced that Mrs. Simmonds No. 1 has begun suit for $5,000 against Mrs. Simmonds No. 2 for alienating Simmonds's affections. All the parties to the action were in court.

Simmonds and wife No. 1 were married in 1885. In 1901 they moved to a 20-acre farm in King William County, Virginia, with their three children. Two years later the husband left wife and family. Clarence, the eldest boy, was then sixteen. Arthur was twelve and Marion nine. In 1908 they returned to New York.

Before leaving Virginia, Mrs. Simmonds brought suit for divorce, she says, charging desertion. Her counsel, J. W. Frost, hearing that the husband then lived in Chicago, mailed him a copy of his wife's complaint with directions to write across the papers "service accepted," provided he wished to acknowledge them. The papers were returned so marked and Mrs. Simmonds left Virginia, sold her farm and considered herself divorced for several years.

Meantime there came into her life a Major Carlisle, well advanced in life, engaged as an expert in the Government's service. The gallant old officer, renewing an acquaintance he had made in King William County, Va., followed Mrs. Simmonds to New York and there pressed his suit. She promised to marry him on his return from the West after a Government mission.

Then she learned in the spring of 1910 for the first time that her decree was defective. She was overwhelmed with grief. She had bidden the Major a farewell for a three-years' trip a few weeks before. Now she wrote him breaking her engagement. She became ill. She at once sought out a lawyer and urged him to bring a suit in New York County to determine for all time the validity of the Virginia decree.

She sought out and met the woman her husband had married. But he had no desire to have the Virginia decree attacked or to have his new wife's name mentioned in court papers. Hostilities arose between father and mother, the three children siding with their mother and the father clinging to his second wife. To top off their enmities, Mrs. Simmonds used her success for $5,000 for alienating her husband's affections.

To-day in court Mrs. Simmonds got a morsel of revenge by forcing to the stand Mrs. Simmonds No. 2 and compelling her to testify as co-respondent. Then Mrs. Simmonds's children took the stand and told of their father's relations with "Mrs. Caldwell," as they termed her. The children glared furiously at their father.

The case hinges on the validity of the serving of the papers by mail. Justice Gieseler reserved decision.

SHE SUES HAIRDRESSERS.

Mrs. Alice Davis possessed beautiful hair, but it was not wavy, so she went to Leo H. & Felix Simons, hairdressers, at No. 306 Fifth Avenue. They agreed, she says, that for $50 they would give her what is known as an "everlasting wave."

Now she asks $25,000 damages because the wave did not wave everlastingly. Her complaint was filed in the Supreme Court yesterday by her attorney, Robert C. Moore of No. 161 Broadway.

TAKES CYANIDE ON TRAIN.

Thomas A. Fleming, N. J., Oct. 24.—Thomas A. Fleming, thirty-four years old, committed suicide on a Central Railroad passenger train last night by taking cyanide of potassium just after the train left Three Bridges for Flemington. He went to the platform to take the poison and then seated himself again near Flemington residents, his old friends. A moment later he was found to be in great agony and he died in ten minutes.

Fleming, who was formerly superintendent of the Flemington Gaslight Company, had been ill for several weeks. He left letters to the Knights of Pythias of Flemington, of which he was a member.
